

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF TRANSPLANTATION

2024 AST Program Overview & Partnerships

The American Society of Transplantation is excited to partner with your organization on advancing the field of organ transplantation! The AST membership, programs, and activities bring together the top minds in the field. Working together, we can vastly improve the lives of the transplant patient community!

About the AST

Since the first successful kidney transplant between identical twins in 1954, science and technology have continually advanced the field of organ transplantation to offer patients prolonged life, but the number of people suffering from organ failure far outnumbers the supply of new organs. As medicine today allows people to live longer, the age-related risks for organ failure will also continue to rise.

Founded in 1982, the American Society of Transplantation (AST) is a diverse organization of more than 5,000 professionals dedicated to advancing the field of transplantation and improving patient care by promoting research, education, advocacy, organ donation, and service to the community through the lens of equity and inclusion. The Society is the largest transplant organization in North America and is recognized as the premier society for transplantation. Beginning as a professional member-based society, the AST has recently expanded its efforts to engage with the transplant patient community through live events, social media, and educational resources. To ensure the sustainability and breadth of these efforts, the AST is looking to partner with external stakeholders who are equally as committed to the transplant community.

The AST is a diverse organization of more than 5,000 professionals dedicated to advancing the field of transplantation and improving patient care by promoting research, education, advocacy, organ donation, and service to the community through the lens of equity and inclusion.

About AST Members

AST members represent all roles and specialties within transplantation. Our membership continues to grow and evolve over time; our core group of physicians, surgeons, and researchers has grown to include other transplant professionals, including pharmacists, nurses, physician assistants, administrators, and more.

With the influx of new and varied transplant professionals, the AST now has over 5,000 members and boasts an 86%-member retention rate. As seen in the chart below, membership has grown at an average rate of over 3% annually for the last 10 years. The AST has an exceptionally active, engaged membership, with close to 60% of members participating in our unique, specialty-area focus groups, the AST Communities of Practice (COPs). In addition, over 300 members, or 6% of the AST's membership, serve in leadership positions in the Society. They serve on our Board of Directors, our Committees, as Community of Practice chairs, or on our Program Planning Committees.
